Anne (Golden) McClelland

Class of 1981

Anne McClelland serves as the senior director of global technology alliances for Red Hat Corporation. Red Hat creates products from open source community software development efforts and commercializes them for use in critical enterprise solution deployments. Her team manages the execution efforts for Red Hat's global alliances with Intel Corporation, SAP, SAS, Symantec, NetApp and other industry vertical and big data partners.

Prior to Red Hat, McClelland was responsible for industry partnerships for Microsoft's Enterprise and Partner Group in Seattle, Wash., where her team drove the industry software company relationships that were responsible for Microsoft's growth in server platform software across manufacturing, financial services and distribution sectors. Prior to her time at Microsoft, she served in various management roles at the IBM corporation across partner management, marketing, development, sales and quality management.

McClelland has more than 30 years of experience in the computer solutions industry. She has served as a speaker for the Association of Strategic Alliance Professionals and she also served as the chairman of the board of the North Carolina Technology Association. She was appointed to the Grove City College Board of Trustees in 2014.
